

Records of the Parish of East Sydney – St Peter's Woolloomooloo and St John's Darlinghurst

Additional material held at State Library of NSW. (Manuscripts: records including minute books, baptism and marriage registers, annual reports, financial records, files, newsletters, orders of service, faculties, and bibles. Pictures: photographs and architectural drawings)

St John's Church is a heritage-listed neo-gothic building which was opened in 1858. The spire was designed by Edmund Blacket and was added in 1871. In 1986 the parishes of Darlinghurst and East Sydney were merged to form the Parish of East Sydney with St John's Darlinghurst and St Peter's Woolloomooloo. St Peter's was deconsecrated in 1993 and the building sold to SCEGGS Darlinghurst. The parish includes the 3rd wealthiest and 5th poorest suburbs in Sydney. St John's Church operated a number of community outreach programs including PJ's café & drop-in centre, and since 1996, Rough Edges safe space for homeless and disadvantaged people. East Sydney Community Services was sponsored by St John's and ran the 118 AIDS hostel along with HMS Care Force from 1987 to 1990. The hostel provided accommodation and support services for people who were waiting for the results of their AIDS test.

Rev. John McKnight was Rector from 1984-1989, succeeded by Rev. W.J. Lawton 1989-1999.

Records donated by Rev. W.J. Lawton.
