

STREET CLOSURE NOW POSSIBLE

Recent purchases of King Street property will enable the college to apply for closure of the upper end of Campbell Street.

Each property extends to Campbell Street with right of way included in the sale.

The closure will eliminate through traffic and give greater protection to student families and college property.

The milk bar at 45 King Street will be let and the upper floor converted for married student accommodation.

A second building at No. 11 King Street was used for many years as a surgery by Dr. Emdar. Its purchase gives college ownership of all properties in the vicinity.

Two houses in Little Queen Street are the only properties not owned by the college in the "triangle" between Carillon Avenue and King Street-City Road.

The photograph on Page 3 shows the front of the milk bar in King Street.

Morning sun heralds another day for Carillon Avenue. The residence of the vice-principal (centre) was erected in 1822 as St. Stephen's Rectory, Newtown. The old college wing on the right of the upper photograph was built in 1891 and the John Francis Cash Memorial Chapel on the left was opened in 1950. The photograph was taken from the corner of City Road outside the Library and Administration Building.

PRINCIPAL'S POINTS FOR PRAYER

Dr. Knox has asked friends of the college to pray that:

- Those associated with the college be heavenly and not earthly-minded.
- They be faithful in preaching the whole Gospel in its promises and warnings.
- They give themselves to the Word of God and prayer like the early apostles and not be diverted by earth-bound activities.

The principal urges that prayer be regularly offered for clergy, the college committee, staff and students.

PARISH TO DINE AT COLLEGE

St. Stephen's Parish of Lugarno has booked the college for a family dinner next month.

The meal will follow a tour of the college conducted by the parish catechist and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Birchley.

The college bursar (Mr. Herman Odijk) is encouraging parish groups to visit the campus.

"We provide an excellent meal at special family rates," Mr. Odijk said.

"Children under 10 years of age all receive additional reduction.

"Groups may book for a barbecue or dinner."

Mr. Odijk is happy to supply information on college conference and dining facilities.
