

THE CALM SPIRIT

The people in all lines of duty who do the most work are the calmest, most unhurried people in the community. Duties never wildly chase each other in their lives. One task never crowds another out, nor ever compels hurried and, therefore, imperfect doing. The calm spirit works methodically, doing one thing at a time and doing it well; and it, therefore, works swiftly, though never appearing in haste. We need the peace of God in our heart just as really for the doing well of the little things of our secular life as for the doing of the greatest duties of Christ's Kingdom. Our face ought to shine, and our spirit ought to be tranquil; our eye ought to be clear, and our nerves ought to be steady as we press through the tasks of our commonest day. Then we shall do them all well. We want heart-peace, before we begin any day's duties, and we should wait at Christ's feet ere we go forth.—J. R. Miller.

THE PILGRIM TRACT SOCIETY

Randleman, North Carolina

Tracts Free, as the Lord permits. This work supported by free-will offerings. Send postage for samples.