The Library also has five tapes of Hammond talks, and the master copy of the tape of the Moore College Library Lecture on "T.C.Hammond, his Life and Teaching" held 18/6/1984, plus notes. Speakers include Rev. Carl Hammond and Dr. D.B. Knox and Doris Taplin.

1. Biographical Note.

Thomas Chatterton Hammond (1877-1961) was an active figure in Theological and Church life. He greatly contributed to the Protestant cause, firstly in Ireland, then in Australia. His geatest work was as principal of Moore Theological College, 1936-1953.

T.C. Hammond was born in Cork, Ireland on February 20, 1877. He was early groomed to endure hardship, but was deeply conscious of a call to christian Ministry.¹ He left secular employment to attend Trinity College, Dublin, where he was awarded the Downes Prize in 1902; the Wray Prize in 1903; and won the gold medal in Philosophy. Hammond saw Philosophy as the handmaid of Theology, and Theology as the Queen of the Sciences. This determined his lifelong approach to Theology.² He was ordained Deacon in 1903 and Priest in 1905 by the Archbishop of Dublin. He married Margaret McNay in January 1906. Their children were John Coleman; Thomas Chatterton; Charles Kemble; and Doris Masterson.³

The first phase of Hammond's ministry was in Dublin, where he served the Church of St. Kevin as curate 1903-10, then as Rector 1910-1919. The second phase of ministry was as superintendent with the Irish Church Mission 1919-1929, and General superintendent 1929-1936, as well as being Chaplain to the Townsend St. Mission Church. These were years of strenuous activity, in which he preached and wrote incessantly in the cause of Irish Protestants. He received nearly 500 Roman Catholic converts, including 25 priests, into the Church of Ireland.⁴ He won a new prestige for the I.C.M.

In 1926 Hammond paid a visit to Australia and lectured on the prayerbook in Gippsland and Bendigo. He impressed Mr. H.L. Tress of St. Paul's, Chatswood, a trustee of Thomas Moore's estate, who was instrumental in his appointment as Principal of Moore Theological College, and Rector of St. Philip's, Church Hill, in 1935. He arrived to take up the appointment in April 1936.

After the death of Archdeacon Davies, there were only thirteen students at Moore College. The College buildings were in disrepair and there was a post depression debt of £6000. Hammond's goal was to build a strong, virile college for the future. Academic standards were raised; the course was lengthened; three new wings were built; a Memorial Chapel consecrated; the staff doubled in strength; and student enrolment increased.⁵ More than two hundred men were ordained during his principalship, almost a third of the total number in the first hundred years of College history. His unrivalled scholarship as a theologian and his powers as an original thinker were invaluable assets. He resigned from Moore College at the end of 1953, but was still in office as Rector of St. Philip's at the close of his life.

Bishop S.J. Kirkby died a few weeks after Archdeacon Davies in 1935, leaving St. Philip's Church vacant. The Moore Theological Ordinance of 1919 was amended so as to allow the new principal to hold office at the same time as the Rector of St. Philip's.⁶ Hammond was greatly respected for the faithful way he fulfilled his duties at the church, preaching right to the last Sunday before he died, 16th November, 1961.

From the outset Hammond was in the forefront of Diocesan work, and was one of Archbishop Mowll's closest confidential advisers. In 1936 he became Rural Dean of Balmain; in 1939 he was elected a member of the Cathedral Chapter; in 1949 he was appointed an Archdeacon without Territorial Jurisdiction. He was outstanding on Synod, standing committees and played a major role in the debate and drafting of the Constitution of the Church in Australia. He was President of the Council of Churches in N.S.W.; Grandmaster of Orange Lodge; and President of Inter Varsity Fellowship. By his interstate travel, inter-denominational ministry, books, lectures, pamphletes, sermons and broadcasts he touched a constantly widening circle of men.

Hammond's major books were: on Theology, In Understanding Be Men (1936); on Ethics, Perfect Freedom (1938); and on Apologetics, Reasoning Faith (1943).

In the words of Marcus Loane:

"He was a man of massive intellect and noble capacity, generous, large-hearted, full of Irish wit and foible, with an irrepressible fund of humour and a strong masculine love of humanity; a great man whose like we may not see again." ⁷

Extra Biographical Note Relating to the Collection.

The collection includes a small amount of papers relating to Frederick George Taplin. Taplin married Hammond's daughter Doris on 9th October, 1954. (see photographs).

Frederick George Taplin studied at Moore Theological College, Sydney and was ordained in 1945 by the Archbishop.⁸ He was the Curate In Charge of the Provincial District of Wilberforce 1945-48; Locum Tenens of Pitt Town, 1946; Rector of Carlingford 1948-49; Rector of Sutton Forest, 1949-50; Rector of Blacktown 1950-54; and Rector of Jamberoo 1954-60. He had a General Licence from 1960; was Curate of St. Philip's, Sydney in 1961 and Acting Rector there 1961-64. He became Rector of Holy Trinity, Wentworth Falls and Chaplain of Boddington Red Cross Hospital 1965-70. He died 14th November 1972.
