

THE VICTORIA UNIVERSITY,
MANCHESTER.

March 11th 1901.

Dear Sir,

It is true that the Victoria university intends to establish a scheme for degrees in Divinity. At present however the only definite decision on the subject is that it is desirable to establish such degrees. It is impossible for me therefore to answer any questions of detail, ~~As~~ to the regulations. The Victoria University as a rule confines its degrees to those candidates who have attended a proper courses of study in one of its own Colleges, and unless an exception is made to this rule it would seem that your College would probably be barred out from our system. I will however send you the regulations in Theology as soon as there are any to send.

Yours faithfully,

Alfred Hughes,

Registrar.

Principal N. Jones,

Moore College,

Newtown,

Sydney, New South Wales.

The degree of Divinity is not yet established.
