THE RECTOR'S NOTES

My dear Friends,

These are days of Women's Lib and Men's Lib—days when all people have longings to be free—liberty is the great cry. So I guess that if I were to ask a person if he or she was dominated the answer would be a hasty denial. Yet most of us are—and need to be! Being dominated provides the best motivation.

It may be my business—my home—my social hopes—my pleasure—my fears—and so on, that dominates me. Whatever it is that dominates, it ultimately determines my fundamental values in life. A man who is dominated by business ambition finds that his relationships, his moral values, his use of time, money and abilities are all governed by how they will benefit his "getting on" in the business world. He becomes what we call a business man! The dominating principle colours his very being.

So the Christian is one who is distinguished by the one fact that the dominating interest in his life is his relationship to God through Jesus Christ. His primary concern is to know God's Will and to endeavour by all means to translate that Will into life in his own person.

A Christian is not a person who tries to work for others. A Christian is not a person who tries to work for the Church. A Christian is not even a person who tries to work for God! A Christian is a person who first seeks to know God's will and then tries to put it into action. It's so much easier to work for God than to do God's work!

To be able to do the latter we have to become increasingly dominated by the Spirit of God—and diligent that not one single obstacle comes between us and the revelation of His Will. When we become dominated by God's Will for us we find ourselves lifted above the fret—the worries—the fears of life. As God's Will fills us there is just no room for these things to find entrance—not even concern about how our church activities can be held together!

To be dominated by God is to live in Him!

There's no doubt many of us feel we can't claim to have reached that wonderful relationship. There's also no doubt that His call to each of us is to press toward that mark!

When that becomes our "one eyed" aim, we'll find His cause advancing here at Petersham—and I believe not before!

With greetings in His wonderful Name,

Your minister and friend,

S. W. GISSING.

EVERY SABBATH

Joseph Howe

Not quite two thousand years ago, in a small village of Judea, a poor carpenter's wife was blessed with a son, who grew to manhood beneath his reputed father's roof, who wrote nothing which has been preserved, who died young, and who but for four or five years appeared conspicuously on the stage of public life.

This divine man so lived, for that short space of time, that by the dignity of his person—the grace and fascination of his manner—the purity and simplicity of his life—the splendor of his eloquence—the novelty of his doctrines—the miraculous power which he displayed, he so alarmed the hierarchs and bigots of his day, that they put him to death, to extirpate what they conceived to be a pestilent heresy dangerous to existing institutions.

A few short discourses—one new commandment—some exquisite parables—a few noble bursts of righteous indignation—a fervent prayer here and there—two or three touching lamentations—some simple reproofs—and a few beautiful illustrations of his courtesy to women and children, and of his sympathetic consideration for the wants and weaknesses of his fellow-men, are all that remain to us of the biography and recorded speech of this poor youth.

Yet every Sabbath, all over the Christian world, millions of people assemble to do honour to this person, to repeat his words, to ponder upon his life, and to endeavour to mould the growing generations by his example. We, in view of the miracles he wrought and of the wisdom of his teaching, acknowledge his divine origin and attributes; but millions, who regard him as a man, are yet won to daily and weekly recognition of the holiness of his life, the wisdom of his words, and of the self-sacrificing spirit in which he died for the redemption and security of his fellow-men.

How many emperors, kings, conquerors, tyrants, have lived and died within these two thousand years, for whom no festivals are kept, whose example no man quotes, whose wisdom no man ponders. Their mailed figures, as they appear in history, seem to shake the earth, their pride to flout the skies, their policy to cover the globe. Yet there they lie, the best of them with their marble or bronze hands folded on their stone sarcophagi, looking up to the heaven they outraged, and challenging from the earth which they devastated but scanty notice or recognition. From all which we gather, shutting divinity out of the question, that the world knows and will ever know its benefactors from its oppressors—that the beauty of holiness outlasts mere earthly splendor—that the still small voice of wisdom will go echoing through the hearts of successive generations, whom the hoarse command of authority cannot stir.

SUNDAY SCHOOL NEWS

Dear Parents and Parishioners,

With the Fete only two weeks away we are still seeking your support to stock the grocery stall. A few of the companies that usually give us a donation, have discontinued this practice.

I would like to thank all who have donated bottles, sugar for the home made jam, cash for the lucky dips and groceries.

Our thanks especially to Mrs. Jones for coming to the Parish Hall on each of the Saturdays in October to make the mulberry jam and to the folk who are making jam at home.

It is very disappointing to see that only a small number of Sunday School pupils are attending Family Service. I appeal to the Parents to see that the boys and girls attend this service as it is a part of their religious education.

NOEL CRAGG, Superintendent.

Now that the more pleasant weather is here it is very pleasing to see so many of our members attending our Thursday social afternoons.

I am sorry to report that some of our members are still on the sick list and pray they will soon be back with us enjoying the fellowship of our happy little club.

Our Christmas Party this year will be held on Thursday, 11th December. We hope all our members will be well enough to attend. The Club then goes into recess until 15th January, 1976.

THE DAY'S WORK GOETHE

Use well the moment; what the hour
Brings for thy use is in thy power;
And what thou best canst understand
Is just the thing lies nearest to thy hand.
Art thou little, do that little well, and for thy comfort know
The biggest man can do his biggest work no better than just so.
Like the star
That shines afar,
Without haste
And without rest
Let each man wheel with steady sway
Round the task that rules the day,
And do his best.

● The Rector asks the men of the parish to help him set up the Hall for the Fete. The stalls will be put up on Thursday night, 13th November, and decorations such as flags and coloured lights on the night of Friday, 14th. The Rector looks forward to receiving practical help from all the menfolk of the Parish on these nights, and also from 9 p.m. on the Saturday night, when everything must be cleared away.

● "White Elephant": This is the famous stall that sells what other people don't want, and which has achieved remarkable sales figures in past years by disposing of articles donated by parishioners. We will have two tents in front of the parish hall, and urgently need your help, to stock them full of goods. There must surely be a few things around your home that are no longer needed: just drop them along to Mrs. Humphreys. Every little helps.

● Articles for the December "Chronicle" are due no later than Sunday, 16th November, 1975.
