

Examination; & that he will be justified, if Taylor desires, in reading for Classical Honours.

A. B. Weigall M. A.

[Late Scholar B.N.C. Oxford]

Head Master

The Grammar School,
Sydney.

March 7. 1889.

S. Taylor has been a pupil of this school for several years. I may say, without reservation, that he is a young man of high moral character: extremely industrious: & possessed of considerable ability.

Lately he has been specialising in the direction of Mathematics: but he has also a very fair knowledge of Classical literature. He can write accurate & idiomatic Prose Composition both in Latin & Greek, & has read the ordinary VIth Form authors in both languages. At the Senior Public Examinations at the Local University he obtained 1st class honors in Latin & Greek.

I imagine, that he knows enough Classics to pass any ordinary
