THE ACTING RECTOR'S LETTER

All Saints' Rectory, Petersham.

1st March, 1951.

Dear Parishioners,

The month of February has been a busy one. All Church organisations are in full swing again and the re-opening of the Public Schools gives the clergy the opportunity of Religious Instruction to the scholars. There is a wonderful opportunity here for any lady parishioner who has the time and ability to give her services for a couple of hours per week in teaching the little ones some of the Bible Stories and Hymns. I shall be glad to hear from you.

The Harvest Festival services were most successful. Large congregations, a marvellous supply of goods for the Home of Peace, and splendid addresses from Captain A. W. Batley, made a very happy day.

During this month a wonderful opportunity is given the members of the Church to concentrate their attention on great central truths of their most holy faith. On Good Friday we are reminded of the death and passion of our Lord, who poured out His precious blood upon Calvary's Cross that we might live. Easter Day celebrates his triumphant victory over death and the grave, and the opening of the Kingdom of Heaven to all believers.

Wishing you all a Holy and Happy Easter.

Yours sincerely,

W. T. PRICE.

NEWS OF THE RECTOR.

R.M.S. "Otranto,"

Mediterranean Sea, 13th February, 1951.

My Dear Friends at All Saints',

Long days at sea, out of sight of land, when even a single passing ship creates an interest, frequently bring to mind the words of the lovely 104th Psalm we so often sing: "O Lord, how manifold are Thy works: in wisdom hast Thou made them all; the Earth is full of Thy riches. So is the great and wide sea also. . . ." After eight days in the Indian Ocean, even though all those days were calm, it was good to go ashore and experience the thrill of one's first visit to Colombo. The first striking feature is its importance and significance as a busy port—no less than thirty ships, including our own and the "Himalaya" (which left Sydney two days after us), were anchored in the harbour. There are no wharves or piers; passengers are taken ashore per launches at a cost of 3/- return. Colombo is a strange mixture of ancient and modern; latest model English and American cars rush past diminutive bullock-carts and the ubiquitous rickshaw. On the way to Mount Lavinia, we visit a Buddhist temple, which one may not enter without first removing one's shoes. Someday I hope to tell you more about it. Our Cingalese car-driver asserts that 75 per cent. of the people of Ceylon is Buddhist. This may, or may not be true; but as we drove, we passed several Christian Churches—Anglican, Methodist, Baptist, Reformed Dutch, Roman Catholic, and even Seventh Day Adventist. The chief residential area of Colombo is known as Cinnamon Gardens, where the flowering trees and gardens are very beautiful. There is a mixed population in Ceylon, particularly in Colombo. The most prominent among the other races are the Tamils, originally from Southern India. Large areas of land under tea, coconut and rubber, are the island's principal source of business, though its early prosperity was built up on the spice trade, when spices formed a more important part of the European menu than they do today.

The Grand Hotel, at Mount Lavinia, is beautifully situated right on the shore, with an attractive surfing beach adjacent. To lunch in its spacious dining-room, overlooking the bluest of blue oceans, with palm trees gracefully swaying across the middle distance, made the most exotic travel-poster (which you may have thought grossly exaggerated) "come alive"! We were back in the city in the early afternoon, passing the famous Galle Face Hotel on the way, and, after a walk round the streets and through the native bazaar, wondering the while how anyone could buy the foodstuffs displayed therein, yet realising that thousands of people do, we went back to the ship ready and grateful for a refreshing cup of tea after the heat of the city.

This attractive port was left behind in the very early hours of February 1st as we set our course for Aden. I thought of you all particularly on Quinquagesima Sunday (Harvest Festival); on that day I was the Celebrant at the early Celebration. The Captain's Service that Sunday was conducted by one of the clergy, for it was followed by a Baptism. We arrived at Aden at 6.30 a.m. on Shrove Tuesday, making but a short stay, for we were off again soon after 11.30. From the sea, Aden looks the hottest and driest of rocks; but to the visitor there is something attractive even in its stark ugliness. The Port of Aden is known chiefly as a fuelling port, ships formerly calling for coal bunkers, but in recent years for oil. Aden is now one of the chief bunkering ports of the world. Its proximity to the Persian Gulf, the source of supply, and the fact that it lies on a Trade Route, are the reasons for Aden's prosperity in this respect. Oil is delivered to ships from terminals connected to shore installations by pipes on the harbour bed. The terminals on the south side, where the Orient steamers berth, are the property of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company; those on the port side, of Caltex Ltd. Once again we visit the shore per launch, but owing to the limited stay, we had not time to go very far. Most of the passengers wandered round Steamer Point, and did some shopping, both "window" and otherwise!

The day after we left Aden was Ash Wednesday. We had a Celebration of Holy Communion at 7 a.m., at which we had forty communicants. I wondered if you had as many at home? Passage through the Red Sea brought us an interesting view of Mount Sinai in the distance (7,496 ft.) with its peak in the clouds; and so, on to Suez, which I must hold over until next month, lest I be claiming too much space in "The Chronicle."

I hope this Season of Lent may be a profitable time for us all in the building up of the only thing that is lasting, that is, character. The call comes once again to devote more time to worship, particularly in the Sacrament of Holy Communion; to Bible-reading; to prayer and self-denial, which I trust we may show in a practical way by our gifts for A.B.M. and C.M.S.

I am very grieved to receive confirmation of the death of Margaret de Bibra, amongst so many others, as a result of the tragic volcanic eruption in New Guinea. This brilliant girl, who taught in our Sunday School while she was at The House of The Epiphany, was one of the most gifted candidates from Australia to offer for service in the Mission Field. Yet, withal, she was one of the most humble-minded Christians I have ever known. She was doing a great educational missionary work at Sangara. In our human way, we cannot understand: we can but thank God for her life and example; and we pray that He will comfort and sustain her parents and all who are bereaved.

Yours very sincerely,

C. E. Adams.

MATTERS MAINLY PAROCHIAL

Harvest Thanksgiving Services.—Large congregations attended All Saints' Church on the occasion of the Harvest Thanksgiving services. The services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Price, B.A., and the special preacher at all services was Captain A. W. Batley, of the Church Army. There was abundance of the good things provided by the Harvest and the Church was beautifully decorated. We owe a debt of gratitude to the following ladies for the time and labour and love expended on these decorations and preparation for the Festival: Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Yarrington, Mrs. Craigie, Mrs. Monahan, Miss Greenaway and Mrs. Price.

Saturday Working Bee.—During the past three Saturdays, men have met, at the invitation of the Acting Rector, to clear up the Church grounds for Easter. The Working Bee will be continued until the end of the month. Among those assisting we noticed our old friend Mr. Peard, ever ready to do his bit; Mr. H. Jones and his son, Alan, also lent their aid, and Mr. L. C. Calver, Churchwarden and Hon. Sec. of the Church, by his help and presence gave us great encouragement. The principal part of the work was left to our young men under the capable leadership of Ken Grant. They were Bill Rowe, Jim Barrat, Ron Farne, Alan Jones, Victor Seagrove and Erik Olofsson. Thank you, one and all.

Choir.—A reminder to all members that practices for our Passion Sunday Cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," need your attendance to ensure a good rendition at the evening service on March 11th. We acknowledge the services of Mr. L. Bartlett and Miss Norman at the organ during Mr. Eagar's holiday and thank them for their efforts.—J. Carroll.

Sunday School.—Both the senior school and the kindergarten showed keen interest in the Harvest Festival Thanksgiving and their gifts were much appreciated at the Home of Peace. Parents, do you show the same interest in the children's work? We do need your co-operation, it would make such a difference to children and teachers alike.—M. Rex, Secretary.

L.H.M.U.—The Annual Meeting of the Ladies' Home Mission Union will be held Thursday, March 15th, in the Parish Hall, 3 p.m. Annual subscriptions 2/6 and gift of new garments will be received at this meeting. Guest speaker to be announced later. Hoping for a full attendance of members and friends. Afternoon tea will be served. We extend a hearty welcome to Rev. Price and Mrs. Price.—D. P. Brown, Secretary.

Physical Culture Club has resumed classes on Monday nights from 6.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. Our congratulations to the girls who successfully carried off the prizes at our local competition. Jan Locke and Jennifer Thew, who tied for 1st in the seven year group. Jan Sayers for her Certificate of Merit. Nine years, Marie Pereira 1st, Patricia Gardiner, Certificate of Merit. Eleven years, Gwen Churchill 1st, Noeline Rawson, 2nd. Thirteen years, Janice Ward 1st, with special award to Judith Lindsay in the same age group. 15 years, Pam Costello, and First year, Pam Williams, 1st, Joy Sanderson 2nd. Gwen Churchill was awarded the Challenge Cup for the best worker throughout the year. Our sincere thanks and best wishes to Miss McGeorge and girls of the Club for 1951. We shall be pleased to welcome girls wishing to join our Club.—F. Ditchburn, Secretary.

Women's Guild.—The Guild commenced its activities for 1951 with a Gift Evening on 1st February. The gifts received were used in the Church for the Harvest Festival and then were taken to the Home of Peace. Thanks to all for their donations. Mr. Bowden, Organising Secretary of the Home of Peace, was the guest speaker at the evening, and he gave a very interesting address on work and events at the Home during the last twelve months. Our second meeting set down for 22nd, as a Bible Study, by Miss Young, was postponed owing to the bad weather and the small attendance. A short business meeting was held and the Bible Study will be held in April on a date to be arranged later. Our first meeting for March is 8 p.m., on Thursday, 8th, in the Library, and as this is our Annual Meeting, we hope all members will try and be present. The election of officers will take place that night and the question of altering the meeting night will also be discussed. We feel that by altering to another night we might get a better attendance.

Our membership is going from bad to worse through illness and death. We wish more women of the Parish would join with us in our work for God and His Church.—V. Lucas, Secretary.

Home of Peace.—The Sewing Day for All Saints' will be Monday, 12th March, and we hope all who can will be at the Home that day, either for the full day or morning or afternoon.

The Committee of the Home of Peace have erected a kiosk for the sale of sweets, afternoon tea, etc., to patients and their friends. The hard task is now to find voluntary workers for this kiosk. Two are required for each day and the hours are approx. 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. If there are any Parishioners who could possibly spare a day now and again, would they please contact Rev. W. T. Price, at the Rectory, or else Mr. Bowden, at the Home of Peace, so a roster can be made. This work may appeal to some of the younger people.

Christian Social Order Movement.—The final meeting of this movement was held on Monday, 19th February, in the Chapter House, and you have probably read the report of same in the Sydney Morning Herald on 20th February. Our Petersham Group, although very small numerically, kept on right to the last, and it is with feelings of regret that we realise the Movement has finished. It is up to us now not to forget the principles of C.S.O.M. and to do the best we can in our daily lives.

HOME OF PEACE—LETTER FROM THE MATRON

Rev. W. T. Price,
All Saints', Petersham.

Dear Mr. Price,

Once again it was a pleasure and joy to receive the welcome gifts of Harvest Festival goods from All Saints' Church, and I would be glad if you will extend to the parishioners our grateful thanks for their share in helping us maintain this very necessary work. With the high price of vegetables and fruit especially, I did not think that folk would be able to give as liberally as in former years, and it was indeed a help to realise that the quantity of goods given to our Hospital was as great, if not greater, than last year, and the quality of everything was wonderful.

Our grocery shelves were beginning to look very depleted but, thanks to such gifts as yours, they are well filled again. We arranged several working bees to prepare fruit and vegetables for bottling, with the result that I was able to put down over 240 large bottles of preserves as well as 120 jars of jam, sauces and chutney with the gifts from your parish and several others. You will realise that a great deal of work was involved in all this, but we do our best not to waste anything and consider the work well worth the finished result. Owing to these extra duties this letter of thanks has been delayed, but I'm sure you will understand.

With renewed thanks to you and your parishioners for sharing with us your thanksgiving to Almighty God for His goodness and provision during the past year.

Yours sincerely,

F. I. CLAYDON, Matron.

Sunday, March 11th, at 7.15 p.m.

The Easter Cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," by Maunder, will be rendered by the Choir and Visiting Soloists.

Ron Dowd, Tenor; Robert Eagar, Bass; Maida Hall, Soprano.

Come Yourselfs, Bring your Friends, Fill the Church.

Rowland Eagar, Organist and Choirmaster.
