

A SERMON
of the
SALVATION OF MANKIND,
BY ONLY CHRIST OUR SAVIOUR,
FROM SIN AND DEATH EVERLASTING

from

CERTAIN SERMONS OR HOMILIES

APPOINTED TO BE READ IN CHURCHES IN THE TIME OF
QUEEN ELIZABETH
OF FAMOUS MEMORY

Published by
The Prayer Book Society in Australia
(Victorian Branch) Incorporated

MOORE THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE LIBRARY

3 2042 10098989 0

FOREWORD

The Prayer Book Society in Australia (Victorian Branch) Incorporated, largely due to the efforts of members of the Committee of the Society and particularly through the dedication and skill of Mr James Hutton, now Honorary Secretary, produced in July 1993 a modern printing of the first Homily, namely 'A Fruitful Exhortation to the Reading and Knowledge of Holy Scripture'. Encouraged by the interest shown in this printing, the Society is now publishing six more of the Homilies, all of which, we believe, can yet help church people to move towards a clearer understanding of major aspects of the faith.

As was stated in the Preface to the printing of the first Homily last year, we now hold all the Homilies on disk, and will publish further individual Homilies from time to time as there develops demand for them.

This is all part of our desire to provide high quality publications on matters relating in particular to the liturgy and doctrines set forth in the Book of Common Prayer and also to discuss in both a scholarly and practical fashion the principles of Anglicanism within the Christian scene.

I commend these additional Homilies to all readers.

Anthony C Bailey
Chairman
21 May 1994

Set up by
CHRIST CHURCH PRESS
8 Glenlyon Road Brunswick 3056
Tel: 61 3 388 0623 or 380 1064

A SERMON
of the
SALVATION OF MANKIND,
BY ONLY CHRIST OUR SAVIOUR,
FROM SIN AND DEATH EVERLASTING

Because all men be sinners and offenders against God, and breakers of his Law and Commandments, therefore can no man, by his own acts, works, and deeds, seem they ever so good, be justified and made righteous before God: but every man, of necessity, is constrained to seek for another righteousness of justification, to be received at God's own hands; that is to say, the forgiveness of his sins and trespasses, in such things as he hath offended. And this justification or righteousness, which we so receive of God's mercy and Christ's merits, embraced by faith, is taken, accepted, and allowed of God, for our perfect and full justification.

For the more full understanding hereof, it is our parts and duties ever to remember the great mercy of God; how that all the world being wrapped in sin by breaking of the Law, God sent his only Son our Saviour Christ into this world, to fulfil the Law for us; and, by shedding of his most precious blood, to make a sacrifice and satisfaction, or, as it may be called, amends to his Father, for our sins; to assuage his wrath and indignation conceived against us for the same. Insomuch that infants, being baptised and dying in their infancy, are by this sacrifice washed from their sins, brought to God's favour, and made his children, and inheritors of his kingdom of heaven. And they, which in act or deed, do sin after their baptism, when they turn again to God unfeignedly, they are likewise washed by this sacrifice from their sins, in such sort, that there remaineth not any spot of sin, that shall be imputed to their damnation. This is that justification, or righteousness, which Saint Paul speaketh of, when he saith, No man is justified by the works of the Law, but freely by faith in Jesus Christ. And again he saith, We believe in Jesus Christ, that we be justified freely by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the Law; because that no man shall be justified by the works of the Law.

And although this justification be free unto us, yet it cometh not so freely unto us, that there is no ransom paid therefore at all.

But here may man's reason be astonished, reasoning after this fashion; If a ransom be paid for our redemption, then is it not given us freely. For a prisoner that payeth his ransom is not let go freely; for if he go freely, then he goeth without ransom: for what is it else to go freely, than to be set at liberty without payment of ransom?

This reason is satisfied by the great wisdom of God in this mystery of our redemption; who hath so tempered his justice and mercy together, that he would neither by his justice condemn us unto the everlasting captivity of the devil, and his prison of hell, remediless for ever without mercy; nor by his mercy deliver us clearly, without justice, or payment of a just ransom: but with his endless mercy he joined his most upright and equal justice. His great mercy he shewed unto us in delivering us from our former captivity, without requiring of any ransom to be paid, or amends to be made upon our parts; which thing by us had been impossible to be done. And, whereas, it lay not in us to do that, he provided a ransom for us; that was, the most precious body and blood of his own most dear and best beloved Son Jesus Christ; who, besides this ransom, fulfilled the Law for us perfectly. And so the justice of God and his mercy did embrace together, and fulfilled the mystery of our redemption. And of this justice and mercy of God, knit together, speaketh Saint Paul in the third chapter to the Romans; All have offended and have need of the glory of God; but are justified freely by his grace, by redemption which is in Jesus Christ; whom God hath set forth to us for a reconciler and peace-maker, through faith in his blood, to shew his righteousness. And in the tenth chapter; Christ is the end of the Law unto righteousness, to every man that believeth. And in the eighth chapter; That which was impossible by the Law, inasmuch as it was weak by the flesh, God sending his own Son in the similitude of sinful flesh, by sin condemned sin in the flesh; that the righteousness of the Law might be fulfilled in us, which walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

In these foresaid places, the Apostle toucheth specially three things, which must go together in our justification. Upon God's part, his great mercy and grace: upon Christ's part, justice; that is, the satisfaction of God's justice, or the price of our redemption, by the offering of his body, and shedding of his blood, with fulfilling of the Law perfectly and thoroughly: and upon our part true and lively faith in the merits of Jesus Christ; which yet is not ours, but by God's working in us. So that in our justification, there is not only God's mercy and grace, but also his justice; which the Apostle calleth the justice of God; and it consisteth in paying our ransom and fulfilling of the Law. And so the grace of God doth not shut out the justice of God in our justification; but only shutteth out the justice of man; that is to say, the justice of our works, as to be merits of deserving our justification. And therefore Saint Paul declareth here nothing, upon the behalf of man, concerning his justification, but only a true and lively faith; which nevertheless is the gift of God, and not man's only work, without God. And yet, that faith doth not shut out repentance, hope, love, dread, and the fear of God, to be joined with faith in every man that is justified; but it shutteth them out from the office of justifying. So that, although they be all present together in him that is justified, yet they justify not altogether. Neither doth faith shut out the justice of our good works, necessarily to be done afterwards of duty towards God – for we are most bounden to serve God, in doing good deeds commanded by him in his Holy Scripture, all the days of our life – but it excludeth them so that we may not do them to this intent, to be made just by doing of them. For all the good works, that we can do, be imperfect; and therefore not able to deserve our justification: but our justification doth come freely, by the mere mercy of God; and of so great and free mercy, that, whereas all the world was not able of themselves to pay any part towards their ransom, it pleased our heavenly Father, of his infinite mercy, without any our desert or deserving, to prepare for us the most precious jewels of Christ's body and blood; whereby our ransom might be fully paid, the Law fulfilled, and his justice fully satisfied. So that Christ is now the righteousness of all them that truly do believe in him. He for them paid their ransom by his death. He for them fulfilled the Law in his life. So that now in him, and by him, every true Christian man may be called a fulfiller of the Law: forasmuch as that which their infirmity lacked, Christ's justice hath supplied.

THE SECOND PART OF THE SERMON OF SALVATION

Ye have heard, of whom all men ought to seek their justification and righteousness; and how also this righteousness cometh unto men by Christ's death and merits. Ye heard also, how that three things are required to the obtaining of our righteousness; that is, God's mercy, Christ's justice, and a true and lively faith; out of the which faith spring good works. Also before was declared at large, that no man can be justified by his own good works; because that no man fulfilleth the Law, according to the strict rigour of the Law.

And Saint Paul, in his Epistle to the Galatians, proveth the same, saying thus; If there had been any law given, which could have justified, verily righteousness should have been by the Law. And again he saith; If righteousness be by the Law, then Christ died in vain. And again he saith; You that are justified by the Law are fallen away from grace. And, furthermore, he writeth to the Ephesians on this wise; By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves, for it is the gift of God; and not of works, lest any man should glory. And, to be short, the sum of all Paul's disputation is this; that if justice come of works, then it cometh not of grace; and if it come of grace, then it cometh not of works. And to this end tend all the Prophets, as Saint Peter saith in the tenth of the Acts; Of Christ all the Prophets, saith Saint Peter, do witness, that through his name all they that believe in him shall receive the remission of sins.

And after this wise, to be justified only by this true and lively faith in Christ, speak all the old and ancient authors, both Greeks and Latins; of whom I will specially rehearse three, Hilary, Basil, and Ambrose. Saint Hilary saith these words plainly in the ninth Canon upon Matthew; Faith only justifieth. And Saint Basil, a Greek author, writeth thus; This is a perfect and whole rejoicing in God, when a man advanceth not himself for his own righteousness; but acknowledgeth himself to lack true justice and righteousness, and to be justified by the only faith in Christ. And Paul, saith he, doth glory in the contempt of his own righteousness, and that he looketh for the righteousness of God by faith. These be the very words of Saint Basil. And Saint Ambrose, a Latin author, saith these words; This is the ordinance of God, that they, which believe in Christ, should be saved without works – by faith only – freely receiving remission of their sins. Consider diligently these words; Without works – by faith only – we freely receive remission of our sins. What can be spoken more plainly, than to say, that freely – without works – by faith only – we obtain remission of our sins? These and other like sentences, that we be justified by faith only – freely – and without works, we do read oftentimes in the best and most ancient writers: as, beside Hilary, Basil, and Saint Ambrose, before rehearsed, we read the same in Origen, Saint Chrysostom, Saint Cyprian, Saint Augustine, Prosper, Oecumenius, Phocius, Bernardus, Anselm, and many other authors, Greek and Latin.

Nevertheless, this sentence, that we be justified by faith only, is not so meant of them, that the said justifying faith is alone in man, without true repentance, hope, charity, dread, and the fear of God, at any time and season. Nor when they say that we be justified freely, do they mean that we should or might afterward be idle, and that nothing should be required on our parts afterward: neither do they mean so to be justified without our good works, that we should do no good works at all; like as shall be more expressed at large hereafter. But this saying that we be justified by faith only – freely – and without works, is spoken for to take away clearly all merit of our works, as being unable to deserve our justification at God's hands: and thereby most plainly to express the weakness of man, and the goodness of God; the great infirmity of ourselves, and the might and power of God; the imperfection of our own works, and the most abundant grace of our Saviour Christ; and therefore wholly to ascribe the merit and deserving of our justification unto Christ only, and his most precious blood-shedding. This faith the Holy Scripture teacheth us; this is the strong rock and foundation of Christian religion; this doctrine all old and ancient authors of Christ's church do approve; this doctrine advanceth and setteth forth the true glory of Christ, and beateth down the vain glory of man; this whosoever denieth, is not to be accounted for a Christian man, nor for a setter-forth of Christ's glory; but for an adversary to Christ and his Gospel, and for a setter-forth of men's vain-glory.

And although this doctrine be never so true – as it is most true indeed – that we be justified freely, without all merit of our own good works, as Saint Paul doth express it; and freely, by this lively and perfect faith in Christ only, as the ancient authors use to speak it; yet this true doctrine must be also truly understood, and most plainly declared; lest carnal men should take unjustly occasion thereby to live carnally, after the appetite and will of the world, the flesh, and the devil. And, because no man should err by mistaking of this doctrine, I shall plainly and shortly so declare the right understanding of the same, that no man shall justly think, that he may thereby take any occasion of carnal liberty, to follow the desires of the flesh; or that thereby any kind of sins shall be committed, or any ungodly living the more used.

First, you shall understand that, in our justification by Christ, it is not all one thing, The office of God unto man, and the office of man unto God. Justification is not the office of man, but of God; for man cannot make himself righteous by his own works, neither in part, nor in the whole: for that were the greatest arrogancy and presumption of man, that Antichrist could set up against God, to affirm that a man might by his own works take away and purge his own sins, and so justify himself. But justification is the office of God only; and is not a thing which we render unto him, but which we receive of him; not which we give to him, but which we take of him, by his free mercy, and by the only merits of his most dearly beloved Son, our only Redeemer, Saviour, and Justifier, Jesus Christ. So that the true understanding of this doctrine – We be justified freely by faith without works, or that we be justified by faith in Christ only – is not, that this our own act, to believe in Christ, or this our faith in Christ, or this our faith in Christ, which is within us, doth justify us, and deserve our justification unto us – for that were to count ourselves to be justified by some act or virtue that is within ourselves – but the true understanding and meaning thereof is, that, although we hear God’s word and believe it; although we have faith, hope, charity, repentance, dread, and fear of God within us, and do never so many good works thereunto; yet we must renounce the merit of all our said virtues, of faith, hope, charity, and all our other virtues and good deeds, which we either have done, shall do, or can do, as things that be far too weak and insufficient, and imperfect, to deserve remission of our sins, and our justification. And therefore we must trust only in God’s mercy, and that sacrifice which our High Priest and Saviour Christ Jesus, the Son of God, once offered for us upon the cross, to obtain thereby God’s grace, and remission, as well of our original sin in baptism, as of all actual sin committed by us after our baptism, if we truly repent and turn unfeignedly to him again. So that, as Saint John Baptist, although he were never so virtuous and godly a man, yet in this matter of forgiving of sin, he did put the people from him, and appointed them unto Christ, saying thus unto them, Behold, yonder is the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world: even so, as great and as godly a virtue as the lively faith is, yet it putteth us from itself, and remitteth, or appointeth, us unto Christ, for to have only by him remission of our sins, or justification. So that our faith in Christ, as it were, saith unto us thus: It is not I that take away your sins, but it is Christ only; and to him only I send you for that purpose, forsaking therein all your good virtues, words, thoughts, and works, and only putting your trust in Christ.

THE THIRD PART OF THE SERMON OF SALVATION

It hath been manifestly declared unto you, that no man can fulfil the Law of God; and therefore by the Law all men are condemned: whereupon it followeth necessarily, that some other things should be required for our salvation than the Law: and that is, a true and lively faith in Christ, bringing forth good works, and a life according to God’s commandments. And also you heard the ancient authors’ minds of this saying. Faith in Christ only justifieth man, so plainly declared that you see that the very true meaning of this proposition, or saying, We be justified by faith in Christ only, according to the meaning of the old ancient authors, is this: We put our faith in Christ, that we be justified by him only; that we be justified by God’s free mercy, and the merits of our Saviour Christ only; and by no virtue or good work of our own, that is in us, or that we can be able to have, or to do, for to deserve the same; Christ himself only being the cause meritorious thereof.

Here you perceive many words to be used, to avoid contention in words, with them that delight to brawl about words; and also to shew the true meaning, to avoid evil taking and misunderstanding: and yet peradventure all will not serve with them that be contentious; but contenders will ever forge matter of contention, even when they have none occasion thereto. Notwithstanding, such be the less to be passed upon, so that the rest may profit, which will be more desirous to know the truth, than, when it is plain enough, to contend about it, and with contentious and captious cavillation to obscure and darken it. Truth it is, that our own works do not justify us, to speak properly of our justification: that is to say, our works do not merit or deserve remission of our sins, and make us, of unjust, just before God: but God of his mere mercy, through the only merits and deservings of his Son Jesus Christ, doth justify us. Nevertheless, because faith doth directly send us to Christ for remission of our sins; and that, by faith given us of God, we embrace the promise of God’s mercy, and of the remission of our sins – which thing none other of our virtues or works properly doth – therefore the Scripture useth to say, that faith without works doth justify. And, forasmuch as it is all one sentence in effect to say, Faith without works, and only faith, doth justify us; therefore the old ancient Fathers of the Church, from time to time, have uttered our justification with this speech; Only faith justifieth us: meaning no other thing than Saint Paul meant, when he said, Faith without works justifieth us. And, because all this is brought to pass through the only merits and deservings of our Saviour Christ, and not through our merits, or through the merit of any virtue that we have within us, or of any work that cometh from us; therefore, in that respect of merit and deserving, we forsake, as it were, altogether again faith, works, and all other virtues. For our own imperfection is so great, through the corruption of original sin, that all is imperfect that is within us, faith, charity, hope, dread, thoughts, words, and works; and therefore not apt to merit and deserve any part of our justification for us. And this form of speaking use we, in the humbling of ourselves to God, and to give all the glory to our Saviour Christ, who is best worthy to have it.

Here you have heard the office of God in our justification, and how we receive it of him freely – by his mercy – without our deserts – through true and lively faith. Now you shall hear the office and duty of a Christian man unto God; what we ought on our part to render unto

God again for his great mercy and goodness. Our office is, not to pass the time of this present life unfruitfully and idly, after that we are baptized or justified; not caring how few good works we do, to the glory of God, and profit of our neighbours: much less is it our office, after that we be once made Christ's members, to live contrary to the same; making ourselves members of the devil, walking after his enticements, and after the suggestions of the world and the flesh; whereby we know that we do serve the world and the devil, and not God. For that faith, which bringeth forth, without repentance, either evil works, or no good works, is not a right, pure, and lively faith; but a dead, devilish, counterfeit, and feigned faith, as Saint Paul and Saint James call it. For even the devils know and believe that Christ was born of a Virgin; that he fasted forty days and forty nights, without meat and drink; that he wrought all kind of miracles, declaring himself very God. They believe also, that Christ for our sakes suffered a most painful death, to redeem us from everlasting death; and that he rose again from death the third day: they believe that he ascended into heaven, and that he sitteth on the right hand of the Father, and at the last end of this world shall come again and judge both the quick and the dead. These articles of our faith the devils believe; and so they believe all things that be written in the New and Old Testament to be true: and yet for all this faith they be but devils remaining still in their damnable estate, lacking the very true Christian faith. For the right and true Christian faith is, not only to believe that Holy Scripture, and all the foresaid articles of our faith, are true; but also to have a sure trust and confidence in God's merciful promises, to be saved from everlasting damnation by Christ: whereof doth follow a loving heart to obey his commandments. And this true Christian faith neither any devil hath; nor yet any man, which in the outward profession of his mouth, and in his outward receiving of the Sacraments, in coming to the church, and in all other outward appearances, seemeth to be a Christian man, and yet in his living and deeds sheweth the contrary. For how can a man have this true faith, this sure trust and confidence in God, that by the merits of Christ his sins be forgiven, and he reconciled to the favour of God, and to be partaker of the kingdom of heaven by Christ, when he liveth ungodlily, and denieth Christ in his deeds? Surely no such ungodly man can have this faith and trust in God. For, as they know Christ to be the only Saviour of the world, so they know also that wicked men shall not enjoy the kingdom of God. They know that God hateth unrighteousness; that he will destroy all those that speak untruly; that those which have done good works – which cannot be done without a lively faith in Christ – shall come forth into the resurrection of life, and those that have done evil shall come unto the resurrection of judgment. Very well they know also, that to them that be contentious, and to them that will not be obedient unto the truth, but will obey unrighteousness, shall come indignation, wrath, and affliction, etc.

Therefore to conclude, considering the infinite benefits of God, shewed and given unto us mercifully without our deserts; who hath not only created us of nothing, and from a piece of vile clay, of his infinite goodness, hath exalted us, as touching our soul, unto his own similitude and likeness; but also, whereas we were condemned to hell and death everlasting, hath given his own natural Son, being God eternal, immortal, and equal unto himself in power and glory, to be incarnated, and to take our mortal nature upon him, with the infirmities of the same; and in the same nature to suffer most shameful and painful death for our offences, to the intent to justify us, and to restore us to life everlasting; so making us also his dear children, brethren unto his only Son our Saviour Christ, and inheritors for ever with him of his eternal kingdom of heaven: These great and merciful benefits of God, if they be well considered, do neither minister unto us occasion to be idle, and to live without doing any good works; neither yet stir us up by any means to do evil things: but contrariwise, if we be not desperate persons, and our hearts harder than stones, they move us to render ourselves unto God wholly, with all our will, hearts, might, and power; to serve him in all good deeds, obeying his commandments during our lives; to seek in all things his glory and honour, not our sensual pleasures and vain-glory; evermore dreading willingly to offend such a merciful God and loving Redeemer, in word, thought, or deed. And the said benefits of God, deeply considered, move us, for his sake also, to be ever ready to give ourselves to our neighbours; and, as much as lieth in us, to study with all our endeavour to do good to every man. These be the fruits of true faith: To do good as much as lieth in us to every man; and, above all things, and in all things, to advance the glory of God; of whom only we have our sanctification, justification, salvation and redemption. To whom be ever glory, praise, and honour, world without end. Amen.

SOME PUBLICATIONS CURRENTLY AVAILABLE

	Price	P & P
Archbishop Thomas Cranmer, 1489-1556: an Ecumenical Symposium edited by the Revd Professor Ian Breward	$5.95	95c* 1.05c+
Anthony C BAILEY	$2.50	80c* 85c+
George Herbert (1593-1633) Priest, Poet & Caroline Divine	$1.20	95c* 1.05c+
The Revd Professor Ian BREWARD
Hooker and the Book of Common Prayer	$1.00	95c* 1.05c+
David MARTIN, Vice President, The Prayer Book Society, UK, Current Issues in the Church of England	$3.00	80c* 85c+
The Revd David ROBARTS
The Devotional Use of the Book of Common Prayer		95c* 1.05c+
Dr Robin SHARWOOD	$1.20
The Wesley Hymn Book of 1780		95c* 1.05c+
The Place of the Book of Common Prayer in the Constitution and Canon Law of the Anglican Church of Australia: An Introduction and Overview	$1.20
Henry L SPEAGLE	60c	45c+
The Horizontal Heresy	70c	80c* 85c+
The Celestial Aureole	$1.20	80c* 85c+
A Window to Eternity	$1.20	80c* 85c+
The Culture of Change
The Very Revd David THAWLEY	$1.50	45c+
The Prayer Book and Cathedral Worship
We also obtain twice yearly two publications from the Prayer Book Society in England, namely:	$2.00	95c* 1.05c+
Faith and Heritage	$2.00	95c* 1.05c+
Faith and Worship

* Posted within Victoria + Posted to other States

All publications listed above and many others are available at our quarterly meetings, at which anyone interested in the aims of the Society is welcome.

Publications are obtainable from: Mrs G Smith
Literature Secretary, PBS,
2/57 Durham Street
Eaglemont VIC. 3084

Please send cheque or money order with request for literature.

Telephone enquiries: (03) 457 1814

